21.	ADJUTOR & MARIE 6th Great-Grand-Son St-Côme (Berthier), QC, CA [MRIN 2625]	ACADIA TO FRANCE TO ST-JACQUES L'ACHIGAN, QC The first four generations lived in Acadia with the fourth generation (Charles) forcefully emigrated to France in 1758 as part of the Great Eviction which began in 1755. However, Charles was among several Acadians who were lost at sea in this sail to France. Two of his sons, Jean (5th generation) and his older brother, Honoré were eventually taken to France. Marcel Thériault in his 1936 short paper titled "Notes Sur l'Exil de Mon Arrière Grand-Père Jean Terriau, Né en Acadie Près de Louisbourg" documents the account of Jean and Honore's life following the Great Eviction when they were separated from their family at the ages of 15 and 17, respectively. Prior to that time, they had followed their parents Charles and Angélique Terriot to Ile St-Jean in 1751. There, they escaped deportation but in 1758, the island fell to British hands and Acadians living there were deported to France. Jean and Honoré were separated from the rest of their family. Their mother and father and Honore's wife, Isabelle Bujold and children, Claire-Gabrielle and Jean-Baptiste, all perished during the Atlantic crossing. In 1759, Jean and Honoré's vessel sailed for Boston where they were to be exiled but on arriving, the Bostonians refused them entry. The ship then sailed for Plymouth, England and from there went on to France. The two brothers were taken into the service of a baron LeBlanc who lived not far from Lyon. After 10 years of service with the baron, Jean secretly married the baron's daughter, Magdeline Charlotte in October 1769 and settled in Pleudihen, Brittany. In the next few years, they had two children although the first child, a daughter, died within the first year. On learning of the marriage, the baron banned both of them and their newborn from his service and land. They made plans to return to CA accompanied by Honoré who had remarried to Marie Fouquet and had two children in Pleudihen. In 1774, they sailed from Le Havre with St-Jacques L'Achigan in the Province of Québec as their destination. During these intervening years since the eviction, Jean and Honoré's sister, Marie had been deported to New York in 1755 and later, was able to migrate to L'Assomption in the Province of Québec in 1766. Sulpicien Fathers were providing lots to deported Acadian families. When her two brothers arrived with their families, Marie was able to obtain one lot for each of them. The two brothers and their families settled there with their sister in August 1774. The sixth generation (François) through the 9th remained in the Province of Québec.

As given by Karen Theriot Reader (See the JOSEPH ELRIC & LEORA Great-Branch), "Pierre THERIOT, Sr. came with his son Pierre, then age 15, to Louisiana from France in 1785 as part of the seven ships financed by the Spanish. They were the 41st family (of 2 persons) aboard the ship "Le Saint Rémi," which arrived in New Orleans on 10 Sep 1785. Pierre's wife had died in France less than a year before they left, as well as seven of their eight children. Pierre, Sr. remarried in Louisiana, but no more children are listed. Pierre Marie THERIOT (as Jr. was called) married in 1792 in Ascension Parish, LA and had 10 children, four of them sons who also married and had children

34.	ERNEST & ADA 6th Great-Grand Son Houma, LA, USA [MRIN 1523]	ACADIA TO SANTO DOMINGO TO LOUISIANA The first four generations (Jehan through Jean) lived in Acadia with the 5th and 6th generations (Joseph and his family including Pierre) born in Acadia but forcefully emigrating to Louisiana as part of the Great Eviction which began in 1755. Joseph's family arrived in Louisiana in 1775 after a diversion (reason unknown) to Santo Domingo. Pierre was born in Acadia during the time that his family was imprisoned in Halifax. He married after the emigration to Louisiana. The remaining generations, 7th through 9th lived in Louisiana where their descendants are today.
35.	TÉLESPHORE & MARIA 6th Great-Grand Son New Orleans, LA, USA [MRIN 701]	ACADIA TO SANTO DOMINGO TO LOUISIANA The first four generations (Jehan through Jean) lived in Acadia with the 5th and 6th generations (Joseph and Pierre) born in Acadia but forcefully emigrating to Louisiana as part of the Great Eviction which began in 1755. 36.	PHILOMENE & STEPHEN 6th Great-Grand-Daughter Amherst, NS, CA [MRIN 1774]	ACADIA TO SOUTHERN NEW BRUNSWICK TO NOVA SCOTIA The first four generations lived in Acadia with the fourth generation (Joseph) forcefully emigrating to Louisiana as part of the Great Eviction which began in 1755. The whereabouts of Joseph after the 1763 census in Halifax are unknown. Joseph probably never made it to Louisiana with his widow and four of his sons. Joseph's elder son, Alexis (fifth generation) stayed in the area of Acadia, marrying in Cobequid, Acadia in 1747 just prior to the Great Eviction. The fifth generation (Alexis) died in Acadia before the 1763 census, but his son Joseph somehow finished his life in the former Acadia, exactly where unknown. We do not know whether Alexis migrated nor do we know anything about the location of Generation 6 (Joseph) although we suspect that it was not far somewhere between Cobequid and present-day southern New Brunswick. Generation 7 emerged in the southeastern corner of present-day New Brunswick in the early 1800's and later, Generation 8 returned to Nova Scotia where the 9th generation remained around the Amherst area where some of their descendants live today.
37.	ALEXANDRE & LEOCADIE 6th Great-Grand Son Kamouraska, QC, CA [MRIN 2229]	ACADIA TO ST-LAWRENCE RIVER The first five generations lived in Acadia with the fifth generation (Paul) moving to northwestern Acadia or Quebec on the St-Lawrence sometime between 1740 and 1792. The remaining generations (6-9) remained in the Kamouraska area where Alexandre married Leocadie Laplante in 1846. Alexandre (and most probably Léocadie) was admitted as American citizen, along with some members of their family (excluding Louis) in 1882.
38.	AUGUSTE & EVELINE 6th Great-Grand Son Kamouraska, QC, CA [MRIN 1705]	ACADIA TO ST-LAWRENCE RIVER The first five generations lived in Acadia with the fifth generation (Paul) moving to northwestern Acadia or Quebec on the St-Lawrence sometime between 1740 and 1792.
